

Temporary Acoustic Barriers Minimise Construction Noise

Project	Temporary Acoustic Barriers
Industry Type	Construction
Client	Trinity Beach State School
Location	QLD

Initial Project Requirements

Flexshield supplied 200sqm of Temporary Acoustic Barriers (Sonic Curtain panels) to Field Construct for use on a project at Trinity Beach State School. The company was constructing a new building near used rooms, and a noise control solution was required to minimise noise pollution and disruption from the worksite.

Project challenges

The modular panels from Flexshield provided the perfect solution and solved all possible challenges. A company representative wrote:

"Our project involved the construction of a two-storey primary school building in close proximity to working classrooms. In order to mitigate disruption to day to day school activities from construction noise, we engaged Flexshield to supply Sonic Curtain panels to provide a sound barrier between the site and school. The curtains have assisted in developing critical stakeholder/contractor relationships by eliminating classroom distractions. The support and service received from Jeremy throughout the purchase and transportation process were first class."
